Home Laundry Tips

You can buy soap and synthetic detergents in liquid, powder, pre-measured packet, and tablet forms. You can also purchase these with or without colorings and with and without bleach. Some produce many suds while others produce few.

With all these choices readily available to the consumer, one must decide which product will do the best job for the most reasonable cost.

An excellent way to determine how many loads a particular size box of soap or detergent will wash is to date your package and record how many loads you wash during a given period of time. Divide the number of loads into the cost of the detergent, to determine your cost per load. It is good to try detergents and/or soaps until you find one that gives you the desired performance at the minimal cost.

Some tips that will give you some help on getting the best results with your laundry are as follows:

1. Sort your wash carefully. To make this task easier, have two bins - - one for whites and light colors, the other for dark items.

2. Sort the lightly soiled from more heavily soiled clothes and wash them separately. Pre-treat any especially soiled spots before washing.

3. Group together fabrics requiring the same water temperature. Most of the garments manufacturers have manufacturer's tags stating proper washing and drying techniques.

4. Start with the amount of detergent suggested on the package. Detergents may differ as to density or strength; you may find you need less than you've used with other brands.

5. After starting with the suggested amount, you may vary it according to your needs. Soil varies in amount and type, and there are other variants in wash load size, fabrics; even water hardness and temperature.

6. Dry bleach should be dissolved before it goes into the washer. Chlorine bleach should be diluted. Let the washer run for several minutes. This will give the detergent time to dissolve and circulate among the clothes.

7. For best results, load the washer loosely so clothes can move around freely.

8. When using a new-to-you detergent, don't judge its performance until after washing several loads.

STUDENTS TO PARTICIPATE IN SPECIAL OLYMPICS

A group of students from Appomattox County High School will go to Lynchburg College on Saturday, February 5, to participate in the Winter Basketball Competition for the Special Olymphics. The track and field competition will be held in May. Shown above, first row: Lee Austin, Alvin Walker, Steven Scruggs. Second row: Henrietta Fleshman, Lynn Litchford, Gail Ragland. Third row: Ivan Abbitt, Lawrence Lewis, Debbie Dixon and J. C. Davidson. The group is under the guidance of Miss Evelyn Heising.

GOVERNOR MILLS E. GODWIN, JR., signs a proclamation to officially recognize February as Heart Month in Virginia. Looking on is Mrs. Frederick T. Gray, 1977 State Heart Fund Chairman, who holds a sign announcing the American Heart Association's new slogan, "We're Fighting For Your Life." Heart disease is the major cause of death in the Commonwealth and during February, Heart Association volunteers will distribute lifesaving educational material and collect funds to support research, education and community service projects.

Remember - - the primary purpose of every detergent is to get your wash clean, not to brighten or perfume. Cleanliness is what really counts.

Prevent Deadliest Child Killer

More children die from accidents than from the next three causes of child deaths put together (cancer, congenital malformations, and pneumonia). Accidents just don't happen. They are caused - and nine out of ten are preventable.

Obviously, I can't go into the multitude of prevention methods in this space, but I think it would be helpful to know when they are most apt to take place.

ACCIDENTS HAPPEN MOST OFTEN . . . when a child is tired, or hungry . . . when any hazard - a sharp knife, a busy street, a bottle of aspirin - is too accessible . . . when parents judge a child to be hyperactive . . . when the mother is ill . . . when a child is in the care of a person unfamiliar with his routine . . . when there is no safe place to play. . . . when the relationship between parents is continually tense . . . when surroundings change, often at moving or vacation time . . . when other members of the family are ill or the center of a mother's attention.

Medicare Information Available

People can get information about the quality of care furnished by hospitals, skilled nursing facilities, and other providers of Medicare services by visiting a social security office.

Available information includes deficiencies noted by the latest State surveys as well as the providers' plans for corrective action, according to social security officials here.

The surveys are made from time to time to see if providers are meeting Medicare health and safety standards. Providers surveyed also include home health agencies and independent laboratories.

The survey information is open for public inspection. Copies of as many as 50 pages can be obtained free of charge. When more than 50 pages are requested, copies are available at 10 cents a page, a social security spokesman said.

Medicare helps pay for the health care expenses of people 65 and over, of disabled people under 65 who have been entitled to social security disability benefits for at least 24 consecutive months, and of many people with permanent kidney failure.

The Medicare program is administered by the Social Security Administration, an agency of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.
